Background

- COVID-19 is a respiratory illness caused by a new virus. Symptoms include fever, coughing, sore throat and shortness of breath. The virus can spread from person to person, but good hygiene can prevent infection.
- The World Health Organization has announced that COVID-19 is a pandemic, with the situation changing rapidly.
- There has been a country-wide response within Australia that includes measures covering our economy, markets, agriculture, food integrity, health and safety.
- A National COVID-19 Coordination Commission \(NCCC\) has been established that will coordinate advice to the Australian Government on actions to anticipate and mitigate the economic and social effects of the global coronavirus pandemic.
- Both the Department of Home Affairs National Coordination Mechanism activated on the 5th March, coordinating the cross jurisdictional non-health aspects of COVID-19, and the Coronavirus Business Liaison Unit based in the Treasury Department will report to the NCCC.
- This toolkit is provided as a summary of announcements and measures currently in place, as well as key information for the red meat and livestock industry.
- The toolkit is current as of: 3:00pm, 27 March 2020 and is a live document, updated regularly.

Border Controls

- Australian Premiers and Chief Ministers agreed to implement, through state and territory laws, new Stage 1 restrictions on social gatherings, to be reviewed on a monthly basis.
- Australians should expect these measures to be in place for at least 6 months.
- The following facilities will be restricted from opening from midday local time 23 March 2020:
  - o Pubs, registered and licenced clubs (excluding bottle shops attached to these venues), hotels (excluding accommodation)
  - o Gyms and indoor sporting venues
  - o Cinemas, entertainment venues, casinos, and night clubs
  - o Restaurants and cafes will be restricted to takeaway and/or home delivery
  - o Religious gatherings, places of worship or funerals (in enclosed spaces and other than very small groups and where the 1 person per 4 square metre rule applies).
- Isolated remote community hubs are not included in these restrictions.
- Other facilities are not impacted, but will be considered under stage 2 restrictions, if necessary.
- These measures also apply to outdoor spaces associated with the above venues.
- Premiers and Chief Ministers will consider further Stage 2 restrictions if social distancing measures are not adhered to.
- Northern Territory, South Australia, Tasmania and Western Australia have all announced border restrictions.
- Our understanding at the moment is the supply and delivery of essential services (food supply) will be exempt. However, clarity is being sought on the impacts to red meat and livestock, particularly with any Stage 2 restrictions.
- It is expected that traffic congestion will occur around border control checking points and may result in transport delays. Consider this in terms of livestock transport and plan for it.
- Federal and State governments have determined that the food supply chain and freight services are essential services and therefore permitted to continue to operate.
- This includes feedlot operations and the provision of goods and services that are used to produce grain fed beef and run feedlot operations. Freight and movements across borders for these business activities are permitted to continue; keeping in mind human hygiene and social distancing requirements must be in place.

ACT	No specific government agriculture response at this stage. The ACT Chief Minister, Andrew Barr has indicated: The ACT cannot close its border but our region can be protected. And we will be working closely with New South Wales and surrounding local government areas to ensure that these measures work effectively.

Information received from NSW Department of Primary Industries - Sarah Britton, Chief Veterinary Officer and Group Director Animal Biosecurity:

- We are in uncertain times and taking the steps you have outlined will certainly ensure improved welfare and business outcomes. There are 3 key points that I would like to highlight:
  - o Being prepared is key to minimising any animal welfare impacts that may arise from a pandemic.
  - o Operators should develop emergency plans for the care and management of animals that account for their individual operations.
  - o A staged plan may be required to address all possible scenarios, including reduced staffing levels.

- Our animal welfare team is working on animal welfare messaging with NSW Health and emergency teams and I can share that with you once they have the required approvals from Health. Since this is a human disease, then Health leads the response and AAFSA (Agriculture and Animal Functional Supporting agency) assists with any animal associated impacts.

- This is coordinated through the State Emergency Operational Centre and many of the decisions to the questions you have posed below are dealt with at that level.
  - o Contingency plans for staffing levels at a feedlot if infected staff or whole teams had to be quarantined for 14 days or more. Covered by Health
  - o Implications for business continuity and in particular being able to manage the feeding of livestock in the above scenario. Covered by Health
  - o Would state / federal government assist with human resourcing a feedlot under such a scenario or is this a commercial matter? See above
  - o Would AUSVETPLAN kick in if there was a COVID-19 case in staff on a feedlot (it is understood that the current advice is that there is no evidence livestock or companion animals/pets such as dogs, cats can be infected with the virus)? There is no Ausvetplan as this is a novel human disease. The response is led by Health
  - o What assistance would/ can government provide in relation to the provision of human resources/ and or cattle management in the event of a scenario where the majority of staff on a feedlot need to be quarantined off site? See above
  - o The likelihood of forced/government sanctioned 'closure' of a feedlot operation should staff contract the virus and the implications for the operations of a feedlot, including the continued feeding of livestock? See above
  - o Or alternately would feedlots be deemed an 'essential service' and as such be afforded the same provisions and not be forced to close? See above
